You must provide (1) a statement from your physician certifying that you are able to engage in substantial gainful activity and (2) a statement, signed by you, acknowledging that the new Title IV loan obligation cannot be discharged in the future on the basis of any impairment present when the new loan is made, unless that impairment substantially deteriorates so that you are once again totally and permanently disabled.

The National Student Loan Data System (NSLDS) indicates that one or more of your federal student loans have been discharged. Please provide a signed copy of a physician's certification stating that you have the ability to engage in substantial gainful activity in order to pay off any federal loans for which you are applying. Along with the signed copy of your physician's certification, you will need to sign and return the statement below. Per my physicians signed statement, I am sufficiently physically recovered to be capable of attending school, successfully completing a program of study, and securing employment in order to repay my new student loans. I am aware of that any new Federal Student Aid loan(s) cannot later be discharged for any present impairment unless my impairment deteriorates so that I am again totally and permanently disabled.
