

College of Arts and Sciences
Honors Program

Assessment Plan
2003

The Honors Program periodically goes through an external review by a team recommended by the National Collegiate Honors Council (NCHC), which is not an accrediting body. The review process includes:

1. A report prepared by the Program Director addressing the Basic Characteristics of Fully-Developed Honors Program.
2. Campus visit by the team members who review the document, interview stakeholders and prepare a response that includes action recommendations.
3. The program director presents a yearly update to the Provost demonstrating progress regarding the action recommendations.
